

Green Scats

Call for Price: 011 826 5887

Short Description

Subject to change depending on availability.

Description

The Green Scat (Scatophagus argus) is a popular brackish water species known for its vibrant green body with dark blotches. Native to coastal regions of Southeast Asia and Northern Australia.

Green Scats are omnivorous and thrive on a varied diet including algae, spirulina-based flakes, vegetables like zucchini and spinach, and meaty treats such as brine shrimp or bloodworms.

Subject to change depending on availability