Short Description

Pangasius Catfish / Baby Albino Iridescent Shark

Description

The Baby Albino Pangasius, also known as the Albino Iridescent Shark (Pangasianodon hypophthalmus), is a stunning and energetic freshwater species with a shimmering white body and red-tinted eyes. Native to the Mekong River basin in Southeast Asia. As juveniles, they are ideal for hobbyists looking to grow them in a well-maintained aquarium environment. These fish are omnivorous and thrive on a varied diet of pellets, live or frozen foods, and vegetables.
