

Call for Price: 011 826 5887

A close-up photograph of numerous small, reddish-brown, cylindrical pellets, likely a type of wood or charcoal briquette, piled together. The pellets are irregular in shape and size, with some showing a distinct longitudinal groove. They are densely packed, filling the frame, and the lighting highlights their rough, textured surfaces.